SCORES OUT TO SEE COUNCIL IN ACTION MONDAY EVENING

HUGE BATCH COMMUNICATIONS. BOND SALE ORDINANCE CARRIED OVER—BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS DEMANDS AUDIT.

When six members of the Daytona city council went to the city hall on Monday evening to hold their regular semi-monthly meeting, they found their chamber nearly filled with fellow citizens who had turned out, it is understood, with the expectation of hearing some "firecrackers" popped.

Nothing doing in the "fireworks" line.

Councilmen present: Klock, Conrad, Stevens, Mills, Gougarty, Burdick. President Schmidt, on account of illness was absent and Councilman Klock sat at the head of the cabinet table and called for yeas and nays.

City Clerk Porter dragged forth a stack of communications, petitions, bills, etc., and proceeded to read and read and read. The council sat apparently unconcerned, but the gallery sat with its mouth open, ears cocked and primed for a loud noise and a great splatter. Vain expectations; wasted efforts.

Bills aggregating $213.25 were approved and ordered paid.

Half a dozen or so property owners submitted communications alleging that their taxes for 1915 are too high. The complaints were ordered filed for future consideration.

The report of Building Inspector W. E. French showed: Buildings erected or in course of construction, 47; alterations, 9; number of inspections made, 88. The report covered the period between January 1st and May 24th. Inspector French directed attention to the alleged fact that many chimneys are carried too high above roofs.

Referred to the ordinance committee was a petition signed by numerous hotel proprietors asking council to adopt an ordinance regulating stands for public conveyances.

The application of T. E. Carroll, of Jacksonville, for the position of "chief inspector of sewerage and drainage work" was filed.

A resolution from the board of public works dealt with an alleged attack made upon that body by Mayor H. T. Titus. It was charged that the mayor had threatened to "remove" or "oust" the members, and that other remarks made were damaging and calculated to create the impression that the board of public works had not properly managed public affairs over which it has control. The resolution included a demand that the council authorize a committee to inspect the board's books and that the findings of such committee be published in a local newspaper of general circulation. The whole matter was referred to the finance committee for disposal.

The clerk read a letter from Gunter & Sawyers, bond buyers of Jacksonville, who complained that the board of public works had not treated the firm with proper consideration; that Gunter & Sawyers had made an effort to purchase the city's sewerage and drainage bonds at an attractive price, and that their offer had, in a sense, been ignored; that the firm is financially responsible and in good standing with the commercial world. Council unanimously endorsed a motion to refer the letter to the board of public works, and the clerk was instructed to apprise Gunter & Sawyers of the action taken.

O. J. Read asked permission to use a small portion of the city island. He proposes to exhibit a number of large sea turtles and alligators. The Park and Library association will dispose of the petition.

On motion of Councilman Stevens further action on the ordinance authorizing the sale of $100,000 worth of sewerage and drainage bonds to Bryan & Co., of Jacksonville, and $50,000 worth to the Merchants bank, of Daytona, was deferred until the next meeting. The ordinance was passed on first and second readings at the session held on May 10th.

City Engineer C. M. Rogers, who sat in the council chamber all the evening with an attorney by his side, arose and stated to the council that he had heard that his competency had been questioned and his integrity impugned, and that he wanted the allegations, if such there were, fully investigated. None of the members of the council seemed to hear Mr. Rogers, and a motion to adjonrn prevailed.

FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE D. H. S. ALUMNI HELD MONDAY NIGHT

The first annual banquet of the Daytona High School Alumni association occurred at the Daytona Beach hotel, Monday evening, between 45 and 50 of the alumni of the local institution and their guests attending the affair. The banquet table was arranged in the form of a huge "T," Toastmaster Gene Johnson sitting at the head of the board, which was tastefully decorated with numerous roses and other cut flowers. It was after 9 o'clock when the guests took their places, considerable delay being caused by the late arrival of some of the members and the photographer. Music was furnished during this interval and throughout the service of the menu by the orchestra.

Following a delightful menu, Master of Ceremonies Gene Johnson introduced Mrs. Violet McCoy Crowe, a member of the initial class to graduate from D. H. S., that of 1902. Mrs. Crowe welcomed the latest additions to the alumni association, congratulating and praising the class of 1915 for its work and success on the highway to knowledge.

John S. Milligan made a brief response to Mrs. Crowe's speech of welcome, in behalf of his classmates who were graduated last week.

Winthrop W. Esch, a member of this year's graduating class, proposed a toast to the members of this year's faculty, many of whom will not be here next term.

George Marks, vice-principal of the high school, responded for the educators and made a hit with his many humorous stories.

The trustees, past, present and future, were remembered by Miss Virginia Maley, following which Col. C. M. Bingham, a member of the present board, replied briefly. The colonel rapidly sketched the advancement in school work and affairs which have been accomplished up to the present time and pictured the plans for the future. Manual training, a larger domestic science department and the establishment of playgrounds were among the important features planned. With the passage of the $60,000 worth of school bonds, grade schools will be erected in the northern and southern sections of the city, leaving the central building for hign school purposes. The major part of this work, it is hoped, will be accomplished before the beginning of the next school term.

Harry Horn outlined the work and

ORMOND

ORMOND, May 25.—Miss Alberta Smith, who has been spending a week in Ormond, the guest of Mrs. Carrie D. Simrall, returned to her home at Winter Park on Sunday.

Andrew Baker, with his daughter, Marion, left on Saturday morning for their northern home in Dover, N. J. Miss Marion was a member of the Daytona high school graduating class of 1915, where she made an excellent record, and was popular there as well as in Ormond. She is now planning to go to a training school for nurses, so that Ormond will probably see very little of her for a time, at least.

Major and Mrs. David W. Lewis left for their home in Hyde Park, Boston, on Monday morning, going direct by train and accompanied by their sons, Everett and William. Major Lewis had made considerable gain in strength in the past few days, and the family as well as their physician, Dr. Bohannon, felt that the journey might be made in safety. Major Lewis' long illness has been a great strain upon Mrs. Lewis, and the best wishes of their many friends here went with them on their trip to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Reilly entertained at dinner at their home on New Britain avenue the first of the week, Mrs. J. D. Price, Professor Burnett Pinkerton, Leonard Knox and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. N. Rigby.

Mrs. Udora Watson opened her pleasant home on New Britain avenue from 3:00 to 5:00 o'clock on Thursday afternoon to the members and friends of the Village Improvement association, for the purpose of holding a "silver tea" and raising funds for the furnishing of something for the memorial library at Green Cove Springs, in memory of Mrs. E. G. G. Munsell and Mrs. Penelope Borden Hamilton, which building was recently completed, and to which most of the clubs in the state have contributed.

There was a short program. Mrs. Macon Thornton gave a sketch of Mrs. Munsell's connection with the Village Improvement association of Green Cove Springs, stating that she was the chief mover in establishing the State Federation in Florida, so that she was often called the "Federation Mother." Mrs. Thornton was followed by Mrs. J. D. Price, who also gave an interesting talk on Mrs. Hamilton's interest in and connection with our own club, she with Mrs. Sizer, a sister of James P. Vining, being the principal promoters of that organization. Mrs. Price also referred to Mrs. Munsell as having spent much time in Ormond, where she made many friends and always evinced a great deal of interest in the club work.

Miss Julia Seabloom gave two very pleasing piano solos, and a delightful hour followed when refreshments of punch, iced tea and cake were served.

Hubert Price was in Winter Park for two or three days the first of the week.

The Ormond schools held their commencement exercises at the town hall on Friday evening, May 21st. The songs, recitations and piano solos were all very well given, each number deserving special mention. The "Flower Drill" by twelve girls, followed by a "Flour Drill" by twelve boys, as well as the "Doll Motion Song" by eight primary girls, were especially entertaining. The whole program reflected a great deal of credit upon the corps of teachers. The program was followed by the presentation of diplomas by Mr. Johns, the principal, to the graduating class of the eighth grade, the members consisting of Mina Meiritz, Dorothy Daub, Leslie Waldron and Arthur Fagen. Diplomas also were presented to Edith Stanton and Helena Meiritz, graduates of the eighth grade class of 1914, but who failed to receive their diplomas at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Vining left Ormond on the 17th, going to their hotel at Linville, N. C., for the summer.

Work has already begun on the extensive addition to Bretton Inn, Ormond, Mr. Vining planning to add about forty rooms. George Carlton is the contractor.

Mrs. Udora Watson is in Daytona for a few days, the guest of Mrs. Hooper on Ridgewood avenue.

WED ONLY FOR LOVE

Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard college declares that there are fewer divorces among college women than among any other class, because the college graduate is apt to marry purely for love and not for an occupation or a home. Motherhood, she declares, is really a profession, and a good cook may be a better one for a knowledge of Greek. The greatest value of a college education for girls, says Dean Gildersleeve, lies in just this: that it gives them a better balance, a more rounded outlook and a truer appreciation of life's values. The picture is from a specially posed photograph of Dean Gildersleeve.

EPITAPH ON STEPPING STONE

Found on Under Side of Slab Just Turned Over for First Time in 50 Years.

Columbia, Conn.—Needing a flat stone for repairs that he was making, Edward Phillips pried up one which for over fifty years had been used as a stepping-stone near the farmhouse back door. To his surprise he saw on the reverse side, in fairly plain letters, the inscription:

In memory of Emily, daughter of Mr. Joseph and Mrs. Eunice Smith, who died April 15, 1814, aged six months and fifteen days.

Rest, thou, sweet slumberer, in the peaceful grave;
Short was thy life; forgotten soon shalt be,
Except the few who, drowned in sorrow's wave,
With painful pleasure still remember thee.

Nobody knows where the stone had been used or where it came from. Mr. Phillips' father bought the house over fifty years ago and the stone was at the back door then for a stepping stone. It is five feet long and nearly two feet wide.

HUNT FOR BURIED TREASURE

Spot Obscurely Indicated by Squaw on Her Deathbed Fails to Yield Up Gold.

Pendleton, Ore.—Farmers and Indians on the Umatilla reservation spent a day in a hunt for buried treasure, the existence of which had been asserted by Ko-ko-dye-a-lash, an old squaw, on her death bed. Ploughs, scrapers, picks and shovels were used and scores of acres ploughed and dug up.

Ko-ko-dye-a-lash was told several days previously that she was dying, and she directed her son to a place where he found a can in which was $1,100 in gold. This she buried recently, she said, but added that nineteen years ago she had buried another can of money.

R. F. Kirkpatrick, who farms her land, and his employees set to work in the locality she described, but could find nothing.

NOW BUSTER DON'T JINGLE

He Used to Until "Vet" Took a Handful of Marbles From His Stomach.

Chicago.—"Buster" is back at home again, romping and feeling much lighter in spirits and weight. "Buster" is a prize Boston terrier belonging to J. Nahser of No. 7949 South Peoria street. One of the dog's tricks is to retrieve a ball thrown by four-year-old Earl Nahser.

Sometime ago Earl and "Buster" began playing marbles. Earl would throw one and "Buster" would tear through the house after it. But somehow "Buster" never brought them back.

It was noticed that when "Buster" ran through the house he made an odd sound, like pieces of broken china jingling. One day Mr. Nahser rubbed "Buster's" stomach. It jingled.

Veterinarian T. A. Kragness was called and removed nine marbles.

Missed Chewing Tobacco.

Oilton, Okla.—The fact that they took his chewing tobacco is made the main basis of Jack Mason's complaint to the county officers here in describing the men who held him up in the oil field, six miles south of Oilton. The men were not masked, but were strangers, and worked quickly. Mason did not have much to say about the $7.50 they relieved him of, but asserted that good "chewing" is a luxury in the field.

KEEP SENTRY BUSY

Smugglers and Fugitives Run Gantlet on Holland.

Many Shot, but Germans Hesitate to Fire Over Line for Fear of Neutrality Violation—Lacerated in Wire Maze.

Bergen-op-Zoom, Holland. — Dutch soldiers under arms stand at intervals along the Dutch-Belgian frontier near here, keen observers of the movements of the Germans in devastated Belgium. The Dutchmen, themselves not at war, live through at least some of the excitement of actual fighting, for in the stillness reigning over the peaceful agricultural districts about here they can hear from time to time the roar of cannon from the direction of Zeebrugge. Also they are often witnesses of the chase by German troops of young Belgians making a dash for the frontier in an effort to get to Holland and thence across the channel to Flanders to join the Belgian army in Flanders.

The German sentries just over the river separating the two countries never cease their vigilant lookout for these young fellows and have taken many precautions to prevent their crossing the line. Bushes have been cut down and obstacles in the way of a clear view of the landscape have been removed. Barbed wire entanglements have been erected for many yards.

Yet the young Belgians dare everything. They crawl beneath the wire in the night and with luck manage in many cases to get through at the expense of torn clothing and flesh. Then, however, there is the open space before the frontier to pass. This is closely guarded by German landsturm troops, but the Belgians often try to cover it in a desperate dash under the fire of the sentries. Many of them succeed, for the Germans take good care not to fire in the direction of the frontier, as they would thus run the risk of shooting the Dutch sentinels on the other side of the line and in this way committing a breach of neutrality.

Once within Dutch territory the Belgian youths are free. As they are not yet soldiers, they cannot be interned and most of them make their way to a port for shipment across the channel.

The Dutch troops on other parts of the frontier have to keep a sharp lookout for smugglers of contraband from their own territory into Germany. These smugglers, because of the rich profits in case of success, are daring and risky and do not hesitate to use violence against their own countrymen.

Gasoline and horses are the most profitable to the smugglers. The former brings at least treble its former price. Sound horses of any age fetch extraordinary prices from the Germans, anything up to $500 being paid for draft horses.

All roads leading to the frontier are closed to traffic. Directly on the border line at wide intervals stand single sentries with their loaded rifles resting beneath their arms. About 200 yards farther back is a second line of sentinels and behind these some distance in the rear are pickets of a dozen men, each with a noncommissioned officer.

The smugglers naturally keep to side paths or go across country. In case they should be seen by the pickets they are at once arrested and their loads confiscated.

Often, however, at night they succeed in passing through the gaps between the pickets. Then their progress becomes more difficult and their presence is often discovered by the forward lines of sentries, who fire if the smugglers, as sometimes happens, make a dash to reach the German lines. Occasionally the chase is lively and gives rise to a rapid fusillade, which in many cases proves fatal to the smugglers.

DISLIKES THE BIRTH NOTICES

Harvard Graduate Suggests Certain Things Be Taken for Granted.

Cambridge, Mass.—In a letter to the Harvard alumni bulletin Edward S. Martin, Harvard, '77 of New York, suggested a reform in the way of printing birth announcements that editors have promptly accepted. Mr. Martin's unique epistle read in part:

"I observe that you print birth notices thus:

"'14—A son, Thomas, was born, February 29, to John Smith and Mrs. Smith, at Brookline.'

"In these notices there is, it seems to me, a surplus of words and a deficiency of information. It is not necessary to say 'and Mrs. Smith.' It will be inferred by almost all readers that 'Mrs. Smith' is the mother of any child born to John."

"3 WOMAN LIARS TO 1 MAN"

In Divorce Suits, Declares Los Angeles Superior Judge in Arguing for New Law.

Sacramento, Cal.—"There is three times as much perjury by women in divorce suits as by men," declared Superior Judge Charles Munroe of Los Angeles in an argument for bills providing restrictions against fraud and collusion in divorce before the state senate judiciary committee recently. Judge Monroe said he had tried all the divorce cases in Los Angeles county for four years.

[illegible] there was virtually no [illegible] substantials.

The captives at Dorchester have a recreation field three or four times as extent, and there they play all sorts of games. They do [illegible] work around the camp and, in addition to the exercise from game and work, they are taken out in big squads for tramps through the country outlying the camp, of course being constantly under guard.

Those of the prisoners with whom I talked individually proved to be most interesting men. One of them up to the time of the outbreak of the war had been a professor of languages in a German institution of learning. He knew the classics thoroughly and now while in prison he was striving hard to add English to his lingual accomplishments.

With one exception there was no prisoner in camp under the age of eighteen years. The exception was a boy of sixteen, who had been picked up from the water after a naval engagement. It was the intention of the authorities to send him, in a day or two, to another camp where other young naval apprentices are confined.

Are Closely Guarded.

All about the camp at Dorchester, including of course the recreation ground, there runs a double line of barbed wire entanglements. Back of these for a large part of the inclosure there is a high wall. On a platform back of this wall the guards walk with fixed bayonet and loaded rifle. Escape seems well-nigh impossible Yet it is true that recently two prisoners, both officers, escaped from another prison, presumably just as well guarded as is this one, and they were not recaptured until they had wandered about the country for nearly a week.

In the camp at Dorchester there are several members of the Prussian guard. They are huge men and of a wonderful physique. The rest of the prisoners are just about like the average of other nationalities in size and build. All of them look like pygmies, however, by the side of the Prussian guard giants. There are no German officers confined at this camp. The enlisted men captives, however, are not entirely from what some people call the lower walks of life. They represent the merchant, the farmer and the professional classes.

These captives hear from home under certain restrictions. The American embassy has taken over the affairs of Germany, and it is America today as represented in England, which has in its care in a way these German prisoners of war. Of course, it must not be understood that America says that this must be done or that must be done, but it makes representations on behalf of the German government, when so requested, and it looks after matters pertaining to the communication which is kept up between the prisoners and their kinsfolk, and also to the transmission under regulation of money from father and mother or sister and brother in the Fatherland to the member of the family fold who is a prisoner in an alien land.

The prisoners at Dorchester showed an interest, and rather a keen one, when it was known that an American was to visit them and wished to talk to them about their welfare. The reason for this in large part was as I found somewhat to my astonishment, that as near as could be determined, not one of the many captives at Dorchester ever had visited the United States. An American was a curiosity. I thought it was possible that I could find among them all some man who would like to send a message to a friend whom he had known in the United States, but not one of them ever had crossed the water to visit the land where so many of their countrymen have found a home.

VOTES 53 YEARS, NOT CITIZEN

Veteran of the Civil War Has Just Discovered He Is Still an Alien.

Los Angeles, Cal.—John Kirby, born in England, veteran of the Civil war, and a voter at every presidential election since the close of the war, has just discovered that he is still an alien.

Kirby, now seventy-three, took the oath of allegiance when he joined the army and assumed that that oath made him an American citizen.

While proving up on a homestead in the United States land office he was asked to show his naturalization papers. He had none. After fifty-three years of practical citizenship, he said he would try again legally to become an American.

ANTS MAKE HOUSES UNSAFE

Stability of a Kansas College Building Is Menaced by Burrowing Termites.

Manhattan, Kan.—The wooden partitions and floors of the administration building of the State Agricultural college here are to be torn out and cement floors and walls substituted. The measure has become necessary on account of the termites, or white ants, which have damaged the woodwork.

The termites, which live on dry vegetable and fiber substances, have proved a pest at the college, and in other places over the state, according to the entomology department of the college. They have damaged other buildings at the college in the past.

SLAYER OF ST. LUCIE SHERIFF BADLY HURT BUT MAY GET WELL

Some of the details of the fatal pistol duel between the sheriff of St. Lucie county, Dan S. Carlton, and Night Watchman Disney at Fort Pierce, Saturday night, were learned here Monday afternoon.

The two men met on the principal street at Fort Pierce between 7:30 and 8:00 o'clock in the evening, both evidently looking for trouble. Sheriff Carlton seems to have been the aggressor to the extent of striking at Disney with his hand two or three times; the latter ducked the blows, drew his gun and commenced shooting; then Carlton also began shooting. The sheriff was shot in the side near the armpit, in the breast and in the cheek; he died in five minutes. One of Disney's eyes was shot out, and two other bullets struck him, one in the leg and the other to the left of his abdomen; he has a chance to recovery.

The spot where the tragedy occurred being one of the most prominent in Fort Pierce, there were dozens of people near enough to see the duel. At first, sentiment was with the dead man, but after Disney, although desperately wounded, had been roughly handled by a mob alleged to have been led by Carlton's brothers, public sympathy switched to him in great measure.

Disney had been in Fort Pierce only two or three months; he and one of Sheriff Carlton's deputies had a fight a week or so before the trouble occurred Saturday night, and it is thought that the two clashes were in some way connected.

There is a rumor afloat in St. Lucie county that Disney may have been a detective sent to Fort Pierce to watch the sheriff's official conduct.
